Emily and Nick were first introduced in early 2003 and reconnected in July 2006 at a party in Quogue, N.Y. "We realized how much we had in common," says Emily. Less than a year later, Nick took Emily on a long weekend trip to Nevis, West Indies. During a romantic dinner at an old sugar mill plantation, he asked her to marry him. "After I caught my breath, he had arranged a car to come pick us up and take us to a beach," says Emily. "When we arrived, there was a small tent set up on the beach with champagne chilling, chocolate-covered strawberries, and a guitar player playing our song, 'Can't Help Falling in Love.'" To complete the evening, Emily was surprised when her parents walked into the tent. "I was completely blown away," she says.
